► READ THIS REVIEW: PERFECT 2-Year-Old Gift!

My Daughter received a different dollhouse for her 2nd birthday. It was small and had many pieces. She threw the pieces and never played with any of it.

I had this dollhouse on her wishlist (which was ignored by the gifter of the ignored house) and was delighted when I found a deal on this a few weeks ago.

♥My Daughter LOVES this dollhouse.

There are only a few pieces included (yay!) and it enables her to use her imagination to interact with it. She uses some of her other dolls/toys to play with the house and has had endless fun.

Durable? Um, yes... she likes to move the dollhouse to where she shouldn't go and climb atop it (she is 35 pounds).

Durable, easy to put together (I think it was two or three large pieces). This is a great gift for a 2-year-old! **

► READ THIS REVIEW: Wonderful First Dollhouse

My daughter received this dollhouse for her second birthday and instantly took to it.

The chunky proportions make the furniture and dolls very stable, so she could play with them easily even when she was very small, and wasn't frustrated by having them topple over constantly.

Does this doll house make any sounds?

No, this play house has household furniture and family figures. My little granddaughter loves playing with it, she got it on her second birthday last July.

I normally don't write reviews but this one deserves it. I bought this for my daughter who was 2 at the time (she is 3 1/2 at this point).

I wasn't sure if I was going to buy a barbie, or other type of doll house, but after doing research and reading reviews, I decided this was the correct house, and I was right.

I don't know what it is about this dollhouse, but it's very popular with kids of a wide age range.

My daughter got this for her 3rd Birthday, but even her baby sister plays with it.

The nice thing is that, at least with the initial set, there are no choking hazard pieces.

This dollhouse comes with a family of three: mom, dad and baby.
